Grief / Depression Assessment Inventory

There are a series of paragraphs below that are paired: One describes how a person who is depressed might respond, the other a person who is actively grieving an important loss or life change. For each paragraph, check the statement that best describes your response. Not all the statements will apply. You may wish to underline statements within a question that do apply.

At the end choose which of the two paragraphs comes closer to describing your present state: grieving, depression, both, or neither. Sometimes you'll choose neither. Sometimes, it might be both. By the end of the inventory, you'll have an idea whether you are grieving, depressed, or experiencing some of both.

This inventory should NOT be used in place of more comprehensive diagnostic methods, nor is it intended to provide a professional diagnosis.

If there has been a loss or a significant change in your life, how long ago did it occur or begin to affect you?		The loss(es) were:
			One(s) I could anticipate.
	A week or less. Less than a month. One month to six months. Seven months to a year. Less than two years. Two to five years. More than five years. It happened while I was growing up.		Sudden and unexpected. Due to a chronic situation / condition. Caused by a traumatic event(s).
Grid thro	1. How have you experienced this loss or a significant change? Grief: The way I am feeling makes sense in light of what has happened. These losses or changes are the sources of what I am going through. Others have validated my losses. Depression: I don't understand why I am feeling this way. Nothing makes sense. No one considers what has happened as deserving of a ond thought or any feelings on my part. I am not sure myself whet me this item is most like: crief □ Depression □ Both □ Neither	her a	loss has occurred.

2. How have you been bel	aving since this began?
--------------------------	-------------------------

Grief: I am easily distracted. I wish I looked better. Sometimes I look better than I feel. Sometimes I feel better than I look. Some people have avoided me since this loss. Others have been insensitive. I am more cautious. I am aware of life's fragility as a result of what has happened.

I have tried to lose myself in my job, hobbies, and sports or in caring for my children but it doesn't always work. At times I prefer to be alone. At times, I feel lonely even when I am with others. Being with others can wear me out. It is an effort to do things.

Depression: I am often preoccupied. I don't care how I look—or, I have to look perfect or else I feel terrible. Nobody suspects or for that matter really cares how I am really doing. Danger makes me feel real or I don't take any risks. I refuse to take antidepressants. I don't always take my antidepressants or I can't function without my antidepressants.

Work/my children is/are my life. I keep busy all the time or I can't find anything to occupy me. I constantly watch television. I hate being alone or I hate being with others. I don't see the point in trying.

For me this item is most like: ☐ Grief ☐ Depression ☐ Both ☐ Neither
3. How has your thinking been affected?
Grief: It's hard to concentrate but I can if I have to. Sometimes I don't know how I got somewhere. Time drags. There are times when am startled that time has passed. I avoid listening to the radio or watching TV, for fear it will remind me about what happened. At times I can think about other things than this—only to find myself right back in it. I've lost the best part of me. If only I had been able to do something different, this would not have happened.
Nothing can ever bring back what I have lost. I am often aware of what I have lost or what has changed. I am often preoccupied with thoughts and memories associated with my loss. Just when I think it couldn't get any worse, it does.
Depression: I am so preoccupied I can lose days or weeks . The newspaper/TV seems unreal, like I am in another world from it. I can't stop thinking about why this has happened to me. This proves how worthless I am. I am to blame for what has happened. Someone mus be punished for this. I will not rest until that happens.
I operate as if nothing has changed. I don't think about it if I can help it. Thinking makes me feel worse. Things always get worse.

4. How have your feelings been affected?
Grief: My heart feels broken. I can get very angry about this. I can be very sad. The tears are hard to stop. At times I am so upset I could throw up. I yearn to be able to love again. There are times when I can laugh. I can feel joy. There are times when my feelings overwhelm me. There are times when I feel better. Sometimes my feelings are so intense I'm not sure I can stay with them. I am ashamed because of what happened and how I reacted to it. I feel numb. I have a hard time being around others. There are times when I feel terrific. There are times when I feel love.
Depression: I am not angry. I shouldn't feel angry. I don't cry. I don't feel sad. I have no right to feel sad. It's best not to get upset. There's nothing to be upset about. I know I will never be able to love again. I feel down when others seem happy. I wouldn't know wha joy or happiness is. I avoid feeling anything about this. I never feel better. If I let myself I would get so upset I couldn't stand it. I could never admit how badly I've reacted to all this. I feel nothing. I never feel terrific. I never feel love.

5.	How	do	vou	feel	nhy	/sicall	v?

Grief: I can start out a day feeling OK, and get wiped out during the day. Any sustained effort exhausts me. I feel lethargic, totally drained, lacking in energy. I have a hard time concentrating for more than a few minutes at a time. It's hard to go to sleep. I have trouble staying asleep. My heart hurts. I can't get enough rest. I feel better after I exercise. I do better when I'm active. I've never felt/looked better.

I don't pay attention to what I'm eating. Sometimes I don't feel like eating. I've felt nauseous after I eat. I don't feel like eating but make myself at times. Eating helps me escape. How well I eat makes a difference. I have lost weight since this loss. I have gained weight since this loss.

Drinking can give me temporary relief. I watch how much I drink. I'd rather not be taking drugs. The escapes I find are only temporary sources of relief. Prescription drugs for depression give me clarity about what I am dealing with.

Depression: I have no energy. I am in always in a fog or twilight zone. I can't seem to sleep more than four hours a night. I sleep more than ten hours every night. I always feel exhausted. I exercise constantly (more than two hours a day) or I don't exercise at all. I've never looked/felt worse.

I don't care if I eat too much. I don't care if I don't eat. I throw up what I eat. I weigh less than I ever have. I weigh more than I ever have.

6. How do you feel pain and pleasure?
Grief: The pain comes and goes. When it is bad, it has never been worse. There are times when I don't seem to enjoy anything, but at other times I'm OK. There are times when something that is ordinarily pleasurable gives me pain. I feel more relief from the pain than real pleasure.
Except when I am reminded of my loss, I can enjoy life. I have a sense of humor. My sense of humor can be pretty dark these days. I can laugh. I enjoy being in nature. I watch sunsets and/or sunrises. Sometimes a time of joy produces tears and sadness.
Depression: I drink alcohol to drown the pain. I use drugs to escape. The only time I feel OK or can escape the pain is when I'm drinking/ taking drugs. I'm sick a lot. I am in pain a lot. I can't remember the last time I really enjoyed anything. When I have sex it feels like I can escape my problems temporarily.
Pleasure is not a part of my life. I feel numb. Nothing seems funny. I have an especially hard time when others have fun.

7. How has this affected you spiritually?
Grief: I pray for strength to get me through this. I wonder if there is any hope for me. This loss seems so unfair. I am angry with God. I was naive to think this couldn't happen. I have lost my sense of innocence. I am confused by what this means. I have lost something essential. My life story has lost its thread of meaning. It's hard to imagine life ever having meaning again. My religious faith (God) is getting me through this or I'm changing (or know I must change) some of my most cherished beliefs—perhaps even my religion.
I don't know if I can ever be forgiven for this—or—if I can ever forgive others. I do believe forgiveness is possible. Forgiveness would require the grace of God—or something equally miraculous. I feel connected to something beyond me—e.g., a Higher Power, God (or love). Getting through this will heal me—something better lies ahead. Being in nature restores my soul. Sometimes I lose sight of my faith—but I am sustain by knowing others believe in me. I don't yet know what meaning this loss has.
Depression: My life is hopeless. I am a broken person. I am being punished. This proves how worthless I am. Nothing meaningful can come from this. What has happened is totally unfair. God is punishing me. I deserve to go to hell. I had it coming or I don't deserve this. I find no comfort in prayer or religion.
I can never forgive. I can never be forgiven. I can't accept why this has happened to me. My beliefs have not given me any answers.

8. What ar	e your dreams	s like?
Grief: I dream a lot but I don't usually remember them. I long to dream of the one I lost but can't. I've been too tired to dream. It's only in my dreams that I seem to be dealing with this. My dreams since the loss are vivid and clear, and they are often comforting. They mak it easier to understand what has happened. In my fantasies, I remain connected to the person/object I lost. I have "imaginary" conversations (daydreams) with the one I lost.
				My dreams about the loss are disturbing. I dream of the destruction of from my loss can tell me to do things I ordinarily wouldn't do.

Those I have injured could never forgive me. There is nothing meaningful about this. I can't deal with it. Generally, other people don't affect me. If people really knew me, they wouldn't like me. I resent people trying to get me to feel better or to give up what they think are my bad habits or my self-destructiveness. Life is sheer torture to me.

11. How has this affected your will to live?

Grief: If life were to continue like this, it wouldn't be worth living. I have thought of what it would take to not to have this pain. I would not commit suicide because of this: My religious beliefs, the effect my death would have on the people who love me or having a something to live for keeps me going.

Depression: I'm looking for a way out. I cannot say I wouldn't commit suicide. I have nothing to live for. Life isn't worth living. Others would be better off without me. I deserve to die.

How To Interpret Your Scores

Uncomplicated grief: If you scored "grief" in all areas, you are clearly grieving normally, and probably do not need professional help, although you may wish to talk with someone.

Complicated grief: If you score mostly for "grief," but also have some "depression" items checked in any area, you should consult with your family doctor, therapist, or clergy.

Depression: If most items are checked as "depression," professional help is highly recommended.

Notes:

* Item 11: If you checked "depression" on "Will to Live," professional help is urgently recommended.

If this way of responding to your loss(es) has lasted less than six months, it is natural for both grief and depression to be present. If your loss and your reaction to it has lasted longer than six months, depression items should have diminished.

These guidelines usually apply only to losses that were anticipated. Traumatizing losses will take longer (multiply by years). Also multiple losses will take longer as well (each loss x six months or more, though time is not an accurate measure.) Sudden losses also can take much longer. Chronic health conditions produce chronic grief, so little diminishing will be seen over time. However, in any of these situations, being able to "look good" to others can begin to appear after six months, and some progress can be noted in moving from the "depression" items even if it's at a slower pace.
